Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurThe crime: one scalding afternoon, the mutilated body of a young woman, half naked beneath her burqa, is discovered on a Saudi beach; soon afterwards a Western woman's husband vanishes without trace.The place: Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, the City of Veils. A city of narrow streets and closed shutters, where nothing is what it seems ;and the Empty Quarter - one of the most beautiful, yet unforgiving deserts on earth.The people: Miriam Walker, alone in an alien culture, desperate to find her missing husband. Katya, a forensic scientist battling the prejudices of a society full of sexual, religious and moral contradictions; and Nayir, devout Muslim, desert guide, amateur sleuth - the man she loves.Revue de presse"A gripping, many times disturbing, story of murder and the search for justice in an ancient society at odds with a woman's fight for independence."Kathleen Kent, Author of The Heretic's Daughter"Zo Ferraris delivers the Muslim The Da Vinci Code. It kept me up at night. I loved it!"Ranya Idliby, Co-author of The Faith Club"An intense and thoughtful thriller."Kate Furnivall, Author of The Girl from Junchow"Superb....Ferraris is one of the most important new voices in crime fiction."Michael Koryta, Author of So Cold the River"A fascinating, insightful, and remarkably balanced look inside a society unfamiliar to most readers."Jenny White, Author of The Winter Thief"Exhilarating. Ferraris masterfully captures the nuances of the Saudi culture and its women, while brilliantly exposing the conflict between tradition and desire."Mahbod Seraji, Author of Rooftops of Tehran"A marvelous book. Ferraris demonstrates the instinctive authority of both an elegant stylist and a born storyteller."David Corbett, Author of Do They Know I'm Running?"Taut and intelligent, set against a troubling backdrop of brutality, oppression and searing desert heat."Anne Zouroudi, Author of The Messenger of AthensPrsentation de l'diteurThe crime: one scalding afternoon, the mutilated body of a young woman, half naked beneath her burqa, is discovered on a Saudi beach; soon afterwards a Western woman's husband vanishes without trace.The place: Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, the City of Veils.
